THREE SEASON PORCH

The growing popularity of multi-season rooms has led to a wide selection of stylish, quality furnishings for outdoor living spaces including furniture, ceiling fans, lighting, rugs and blinds. With wall panels, transoms and doors from Touchstone Woodworks, you can create an inviting three season porch or room.

Designed like our doors to accept removable and interchangeable screen and tempered glass storm inserts, our solutions allow you to convert an outdoor living space from screen to glass when the weather turns cool and from glass to screen when leaves turn green.

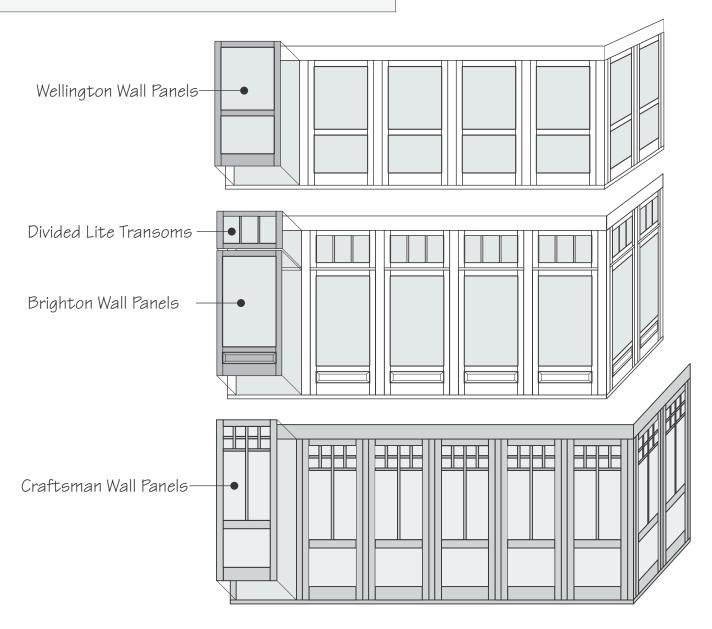

During the warmest season, you can enjoy the open, airy feeling of an old-fashioned screened porch, bringing in the sights and sounds of summer, day and night, without battling the bugs and mosquitos. Exchanging the screen for glass will extend the enjoyment of your room into the spring and fall. The glass will protect the room and furniture from dust, pollen, wind, blowing rain and snow, in addition to serving as an effective sound barrier.

Single Lite Knee Wall Panels

TOUCHSTONE WOODWORKS THREE SEASON PRODUCT SPECIFICATIONS:

WALL PANELS, TRANSOMS & DOORS: Our wall panels, transoms and doors are a full 1-1/4" thick mahogany, mortise and tenon joinery, epoxied and pegged through with mahogany pegs. On our Wellington wall panels, the middle rails are also mortised and tenoned for added structural integrity. Our products are designed to accept removable and interchangeable screen and tempered glass storm panels. We offer you a choice of white or dark bronze aluminum screen and storm frames. These sit in a rabbet on one side of the unit. The Wellington doors and wall panels have 2 removable screens and storms, divided at the tenoned midrail. The knee wall panels and transoms have one removable screen and storm.

METHOD OF RETAINING & INTERCHANGING SCREEN & GLASS PANELS: Our units are designed to accept removable and interchangeable screens and tempered glass storms. To fasten the screens and glass into the units, we drill holes in the vertical members of the aluminum frames and install corresponding metal threaded inserts in the rabbet of the wood to accept brass or stainless steel machine screws and shoulder washers.

SCREENS: Screen frame is fabricated from .019 gauge roll-formed aluminum , 3/8" thick x 45/64" wide with matching solid plastic corner locks, available in white or dark bronze with black serrated screen spline and charcoal aluminum screen mesh standard.

TEMPERED SAFETY GLASS STORMS: Bi-laminate storm frame is fabricated from .019 gauge aluminum 3/8" thick x 25/32" wide with matching solid plastic corner locks, available in white or dark bronze with 1/8" thick clear tempered safety glass. Tempered glass is four to five times stronger than standard glass and does not break into sharp shards when it fails. If it breaks, it fragments into small harmless rounded pellets. This eliminates the danger of sharp edges. Due to this property, along with its strength, tempered glass is often referred to as safety glass.

FINISHES OFFERED: Oil-based primer, Penofin penetrating oil finish or unfinished. The units should receive a final finish coat on all sides and edges prior to installation.

INSTALLATION: Our units should be allowed to "float" inside a framed opening, as a panel "floats" in a door. This can be done by fastening an inner and outer perimeter of moulding to the framed openings to create a stop on both sides of the floating wall panel. The treatment at the bottom can vary depending on the type of floor, the slope and how the openings are framed. The plan should allow water to shed. One option is a wood "sill plate" around the perimeter of the room to elevate the bottoms of the panels off the floor and provide for a level sill for the panels to sit on. Sill plates can be secured between the posts and scribed to leave a space between the floor and the bottom of the sill plate for water to exit. Another option: shimming under the panels with blocks of composite material (like Trex) and fastening a baseboard trim to the bottom of the panels. On the exterior, create a drainage plane by adding 1/4" thick erosion matting (like Enkamat #7010) between the baseboard and the panel.

CONSTRUCTION DETAILS

Wellington Style Wall Panel

OUR PRODUCTS ARE INTENDED TO CREATE AN OUTDOOR, THREE SEASON ROOM:

an upgrade/alternative to an open air porch or deck or fixed screen porch. They are NOT intended to create a year-round room in a cold climate nor an insulated, water-proof room when the glass is installed. Water seepage can occur at bottom of glass in driving rain. Furnishings, floors and electricity for a three season room created with our wall panels should be rated and designed for outdoor use. The deck or flooring may get wet and should be designed to shed water.

The post and trim sizes shown here are for the purpose of illustrating examples. It is up to the designer/builder to specify construction details, post sizes and spans.

Unit size=opening less 1/4" The fasteners are in the stops, allowing unit to "float" In this example, posts are 5x5 and stops are 3/4 quarter round 1 Set posts 2 Add stops 3 Install wall panel 4 Add stops 4 Add stops

Our units should be allowed to "float" inside a framed opening, as a panel "floats" in a door. This way no stress is put on the joints and the wood can expand and contract. This can be done by fastening an inner and outer perimeter of trim or moulding to the framed openings to create a stop on both sides of thefloating wall panel.

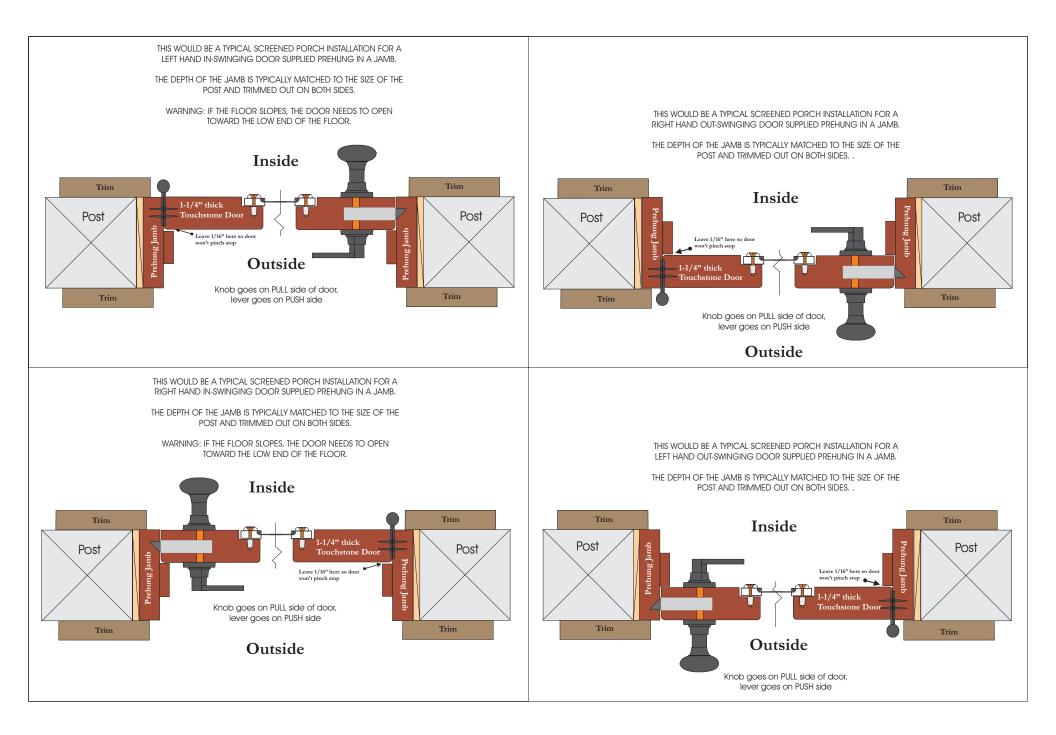

All the posts can be the same size or there could be smaller, intermediate framing members located inside larger spans, supported by larger, load-bearing structural posts. Typically the posts support a beam, which supports the roof. These design and structural details should be worked out by the homeowner and the designer/builder prior to ordering the units since the sizes of the units will depend on the sizes of the posts and framingmembers.

The treatment at the bottom can vary depending on the type of floor, the slope and how the openings are framed. The plan should allow water to shed. One option is a wood "sill plate" around the perimeter of the room to elevate the bottoms of the panels off the floor and provide for a level sill for the panels to sit on. Sill plates can be secured between the posts and scribed to leave a space between the floor and the bottom of the sill plate for water to exit. Another option: shimming under the panels with blocks of composite material (like Trex) and fastening a baseboard trim to the bottom of the panels. On the exterior, create a drainage plane by adding 1/4" thick erosion matting (like Enkamat #7010) between the baseboard and the panel.

If the posts are wrapped, the post wrap/trim can serve as the stops for retaining the wall Touchstone Woodworks panels. In this case, the size of the wall panels would be based on the opening width Wall Panel Installation Option between the posts rather than based on opening width between the finished dimension of the wrapped posts. Panel width should be sized 1/4" less than opening width between posts. with Wrapped posts INSIDE INSIDE DOOR OPENS IN 5-1/2" square posts 1-1/4" thick Touchstone Wall Panel 1-1/4" thick Touchstone Door Doors that open OUT, will have 1-1/4" thick Touchstone Wall Panel Doo to be installed to the outside OUTSIDE OUTSIDE Doors that open IN, will have 2" square posts to be installed to the inside 1-1/4" thick Touchstone Door The panels can be installed to the outside, middle or inside of the posts, as shown here.
